Head Coach Greg Dikos

RYAN LYNCH, University of Notre Dame

Ryan Lynch will take his baseball talents to the University of Notre Dame and the Atlantic Coast Conference.

"I loved their coaching staff and the campus," Lynch said about why he chose Notre Dame. "I like the conference they are in (the Atlantic Coast Conference), which will be challenging. The Mendoza School of Business is one of the top in the country and I want to study business."

Lynch, an outfielder and pitcher, helped lead the Kingsmen to the state championship game as a Sophomore in 2017. In the 2018 season, Lynch earned first-team All-Northern Indiana Conference honors with a batting average of .330 and 20 RBIs. The left-handed flamethrower had a 1.62 ERA and a 5-1 record.

"It (Penn Baseball) helped me to develop a team feel ... Learning how to create good chemistry and building leadership skills," Lynch said

Lynch will be entering his fourth year as a starter.

Penn High School Baseball Head Coach Greg Dikos said that Lynch has the tools to be successful at the collegiate level.

"(Ryan Lynch possesses) all the skills necessary for D-I," Dikos said.

CAMRYN SZYNSKI, Tulane University

Camryn Szynski will continue his academic and athletic careers at Tulane University.

"I chose Tulane for academics and athletics," Szynski said. "They have high standards in the business field. As far as Baseball, the coaches were the main reason I chose Tulane. The program has a great sense of family."

Szynski, a pitcher and third baseman, had an outstanding 4-0 record in the 2019 season, striking out 48.

RYAN LYNCH

CAMRYN SZYNSKI

"Playing Penn Baseball, I learned work ethic, how to grind out the season, and especially grind out the offseason," Szynski said. The competition for positions at Penn has also challenged me to work hard to be a better player."

Szynski has started for three seasons on the varsity team and was first-team All-Northern Indiana Conference at third base his junior year.

"Cam possesses all the skills necessary for Division I." Penn head coach Greg Dikos stated. "I would like to see him continue to work on leadership qualities for a successful senior season."

Boys Basketball

Head Coach Al Rhodes

DEREK DERDA, Manchester University

Derek Derda, a 6-foot-2, 180-pound runner, will look to make an impact on the basketball court collegiately for Manchester University.

Derda was a key reserve on Penn's 24-4 team last season that reached the Final Four.

"I chose Manchester because it has my Major (Physical Education), and I really liked the coaches there," Derda said. "The players were extremely welcoming. Manchester seems like it's where I could see myself the next four years."

Derda said the Penn Boys Basketball experience has been vital to his development.

"Coach Rhodes has helped me prepare for the college game, because he always knows what to do in every situation," Derda said. "The things he teaches at practice aren't always about basketball. He teaches life lessons in addition to basketball."

Derda is a talented athlete who can hurt opponents from different areas on the court.

"Derek is a solid basketball player who is improving rapidly," Penn Boys Basketball Head Coach Al Rhodes said. "He can play inside and outside. Derek is an excellent defender who is also a strong rebounder, and he takes the ball to the basket with great intensity!"

Head Coach Tony Polizzotto

JACK BRENNER, Purdue University Northwest

Jack Brenner, a member of Penn's 2019 state finalist Golf Team, will compete collegiately at Purdue Northwest.

"I choose Purdue Northwest because the school fits me academically and athletically," Brenner said. "During my visit, the athletic department was remarkably welcoming. Purdue Northwest allows me to play golf while earning my Engineering degree."

Brenner said that Penn's competitive Boys Golf Program, which earned Northern Indiana Conference, Sectional and Regional Championships last year, has prepared him for the college game.

"Penn golf has prepared me to play at the collegiate level because of the competitive nature of team qualifying. Each year it is a shootout for the top 5 spots, which has motivated me to improve upon my game."

"Jack brings a great attitude to any team and is a joy to be around," Penn teammate Max Clark said. "He's a great addition to the Penn golf team every year and I'm sure that his Purdue Northwest teammates will think the same thing."

JOSH YODER, IUPUI

Josh Yoder will continue his academic and athletic careers at IUPUI. Yoder helped lead the Kingsmen to Northern Indiana Conference, Sectional and Regional Championships on their way to a fifth-place finish in the State Championships.

"I chose IUPUI because I like the downtown Indianapolis campus, they are a DI school, their coaching staff is good and they have nice facilities," Yoder said.

Yoder shot under par in four of Penn's nine-hole matches throughout the season. He was also the low man for the Kingsmen at the State Championships.

Yoder has achieved first-team All-Northern Indiana Conference honors in each of his three seasons as a member of the Penn Golf Team.

Teammate Josh Gaughan had a lot of high praise for Yoder.

“I think Josh has such a strong skill set throughout his entire game, alongside being a great team player,” Gaughan said. “His abilities on the golf course and reputation off the course match are what a Division I college would hope for from an incoming player.

“I think that the continuation of the strong play he has shown through his high school career is very important,” Gaughan continued about Yoder. “He is a great leader for our high school team and I think that will help us make a very strong finish in the State championship next season.”

Boys Track & Field

Head Coach Jon Carroll

VISHAL TURNA, Oakland University

Vishal Turna, Penn High School track and field veteran has committed to Oakland University in Rochester, Michigan.

He qualified for the State Championships in discus, and helped Penn win Sectional and Regional Championships.

VISHAL TURNA

“I chose Oakland because it has the perfect blend of academics and athletics,” Turna said. “Coach Brumfield, who is the head coach at Oakland, has known me since eighth grade and she has put together an amazing team that will be a force to be reckoned with.

“The whole Oakland staff are amazing and give me the best opportunity to bring home an NCAA championship as well as the fact that it’s a young team and with the right opportunities. It will be a powerhouse in NCAA Division I track and field.”

Turna credited the Penn Boys Track and Field coaching staff with helping him develop his talent.

“Coach Carroll and the whole coaching staff have done a great job teaching me not only how to throw far but how to become an all-around student-athlete and a good person,” Turna said. “Coach Carroll taught me how to be a leader and role model for the other kids on the team as well as a leader in the community.

“Another important aspect was the team dynamic here at Penn,” Turna said. “I still remember last year at sectionals when the whole team and all of the parents gathered around the shot put ring and gave me the energy to crush my personal record as well as the competition. Penn Track and Field and Penn athletics are a very special thing and I am proud to wear the black and gold here at Penn and next year at Oakland.”

Penn track teammate Lucas Small said that Turna has a great work ethic.

“Vishal practices throwing all year round and keeps his body and mind right,” Small said. “I would say that his work ethic is unmatched and has prepared him to be in the best situation. He is a great teammate, hardworking, and a great leader not only for the throwers but all of the athletes on our track team here at Penn High.”

BROOKE NEAL, Ball State University

Brooke Neal will run Division I cross country and track and field at Ball State University.

Neal began running cross country her sophomore year of high school. She greatly contributed to the team as a runner and teammate.

“Brooke joining the cross country team her sophomore season has been an incredibly important event for us,” Penn Girls Cross Country Head Coach Michael Clements said. “Not only did her running talents help elevate our finish positions at State the past two years, but her tenacity and competitive attitude she brought from her soccer background have helped make us a more aggressive racing team.”

Neal’s training has progressed greatly, with increased mileage and workload, in order to help prepare her to run at a college level.

Neal wanted a college that would allow her to access to a good veterinarian program and also give her the chance to run at a collegiate level. After much consideration and other offers from different colleges, Neal felt that Ball State was the choice best suited for her.

Morris is a multi-sport athlete who has participated in track, powder puff, and basketball. She played a leading role on the Junior Varsity team, and had key moments for Penn's Varsity in the 2018-2019 season. Morris was part of Penn's 25-0 regular-season record, and Northern Indiana Conference and Sectional Championships.

Penn Girls Basketball Head Coach Kristi Ulrich said that Morris is an impact player for the Kingsmen.

"The energy and determination that Caroline brings to the floor will create so many opportunities for her and her teammates," Ulrich said.

She plans on joining the physicians assistant program. On the basketball side, Pate said that she loved the coaches and players at St. Francis.

CAROLINE MORRIS

REGANNE PATE

Pate has been a huge presence for the Penn Girls Basketball Program, which was 25-0 in the regular season and won Northern Indiana Conference and Sectional Championships last season.

Penn's big season in 2018-2019 helped the Kingsmen earn selection to the Indiana Hall of Fame Classic this season.

Last season, Pate averaged 12.4 points a game. She set a Penn record with nine 3-pointers in one game.

Penn Girls Basketball Coach Kristi Ulrich said that St. Francis is a good fit for Pate.

"Saint Francis is a good team and environment for the field of study that Reganne wants to be in," Ulrich said. "The team has the people and coaches to make Reganne better."

ANTREESE SHELTON, Purdue University Northwest

Penn girls basketball forward Antreese Shelton will continue her academic and athletic careers at Purdue University Northwest.

Last season, Shelton (a 6-foot-2 starting forward) helped the Kingsmen post their first unbeaten regular-season record in Penn Girls Basketball Program history. The Kingsmen were 25-0 in the regular season and won the Northern Indiana Conference Championship. Penn also won a Sectional Championship.

ANTREESE SHELTON

"I chose Purdue Northwest because it felt like it's the right place for me as an athlete due to the people who are already there who will help me develop," Shelton said. "(Purdue Northwest) also has so many options for the types of things I want to study such as sports broadcasting or something in that field."

Shelton averaged 5.7 points, 4.8 rebounds, 1.4 assists, and 1.4 blocks per game last season. In addition, she was a key contributor during the post-season and helped take the team to the Regional final.

"Antreese is a long and athletic forward who runs the floor extremely well," Penn Girls Basketball Head Coach Kristi Ulrich said. "In addition to that, her frame allows her to be a disruptive force on the defensive end of the floor. She is also a great communicator on the court with her teammates. These attributes will allow her to make an impact at the next level for Purdue Northwest."

Shelton said that playing in Coach Ulrich's program has helped prepare her for college basketball.

"Penn helped me learn that nothing is given, and everything is earned on and off the court," Shelton stated.

Girls Golf

Head Coach Katie Zielinski

GRACE SZKLAREK, University of Illinois-Chicago

Grace Szklarek, who has played on two State Championship Girls Soccer Teams and a State Finalist Girls Golf Team, will play golf at the University of Illinois-Chicago.

“I decided to play golf in college over soccer because we get to travel all over the country to beautiful courses,” Szklarek said. “Other than that, I believe this is a lifetime sport that I can continue versus soccer, which is tougher physically.”

“I chose UIC because other than loving the city, they have a great physical therapy program,” Szklarek said. “I also look up to the coach, which is very important.”

Penn High School is not only recognized for a winning tradition, but also for the lessons that lead to those wins. Penn coaches have a responsibility to provide an understanding and welcoming environment, which is exactly what they've done for Szklarek.

“Not only did the coaches prepare me for college by teaching me all about the game of golf, but they taught me how to play as a team instead of just individually,” Szklarek said.

Szklarek is excited about her future.

“Not only is being at the collegiate level is awesome, I get to play four more years with my team, who will help teach me valuable life skills,” Szklarek said.

KELSI CARRICO, Purdue University

Kelsi Carrico, who played on two Girls Soccer State Championships for Penn, will compete in Women's Soccer in the Big Ten Conference for the Purdue Boilermakers.

"I wanted to play for a big D-I school, so I could play at the highest level of college soccer," Carrico said of committing to Purdue.

KELSI CARRICO

Carrico said that going to a Power 5 Conference in the NCAA feels right after competing for Penn, which was named the No. 1 High School Girls Soccer Team in the nation in 2017.

Carrico added that she wanted to be away from home to receive the full "college experience," but close enough so family and friends could come and support her at her games.

As for the Purdue Soccer program itself, Carrico stated she felt comfortable with the coaches and her future teammates, which include some former high school and club teammates. Carrico played with current Purdue Boilermaker Alexis Marks on last season's Kingsmen team, and she played with Purdue's Ashley Witucki of Carmel on the Indiana Fire DA club team.

"Kelsi, a two-time all-state player and a recently selected High School All-American, has been one of the best all-around players to ever put on a Penn Girls Soccer uniform," Penn Girls Soccer Head Coach Jeff Hart said. "She's played an important role on back-to-back undefeated state championship teams. She is a high character student-athlete that we've been so fortunate to coach. Purdue will benefit from having her in their program for many reasons, including her passion for being a great teammate."

ABBIE CLAY

SYDNEY EGENDOERFER

The Penn girls soccer program has also contributed to shape her to be the athlete she is now.

“I was constantly around players who pushed me to be better and put in situations where I had to make decisions,” Egendoerfer said of how Penn Girls Soccer helped her develop her skills. “PGS has been an amazing experience and has made me more than ready to play in college.”

Penn Girls Soccer Head Coach Jeff Hart believes that Egendoerfer will have a strong impact at Marian.

“Sydney is one of our rare four-year varsity players,” Hart said. “A captain this year, she is a tough, strong defensive player who can dominate games in the air or with her great touch and vision.

“As a sophomore (on a team filled with future Division I student-athletes), she led our team in minutes during our second state title run and I would expect to see her take on an important leadership role early in her career at Marian.”

Throughout her highschool soccer career, Egendoerfer has played in a total of 74 varsity games. During those games she has contributed four assists and five goals. Egendoerfer was named MVP in the Northern Indiana Conference as a senior.

"Penn Softball has helped me by pushing me to work harder towards my goals," Van Zant said. "It has provided me with many opportunities like weight lifting, speed and agility, and other workouts to prepare me for college."

Penn Softball Head Coach Beth Zachary said that Van Zant has been an inspiring teammate.

"Nichole has shown tremendous character, work ethic, and perseverance to come back from such a significant back injury that would end most athletes' careers," Zachary said. "Nichole is always positive and willing to do whatever is needed to help the team and her teammates."

Penn Volleyball Head Coach Lisa Pawlik said that Hickey made significant contributions to the Penn Program, including as a key player in the Kingsmen drive to the Final Four in 2018.

"Unfortunately an injury took Ally away from most of her senior season, but it did not diminish her love of the game and her volleyball IQ," Pawlik said. "Ally was able to return to the court late in the season in a defensive role and did a great job. Her ability to read the court and help her teammates find that perfect play was invaluable. She used her heart, voice, and talent to take us to another level."

"(Ally) will be highly successful at Lewis due to her work ethic, healed injury, her volleyball mental game, and her love of the sport," Pawlik said. "We are so excited for her and to watch the great things to come."
