TCU sponsors Freed Field

By Parker Adkins

Penn High School made a ground-breaking deal in 2015 when it reached a deal for the naming rights of Freed Field with Teachers Credit Union.

TCU/Freed Field is the result of a new sponsorship deal with TCU that brings $396,000 to Penn-Harris-Madison schools.

Freed Field is the latest Penn field to be sponsored, that's why it has made local and national news and media. Penn has started to let families or businesses sponsor a field, gym, or classroom for a contract, making Penn one of the leaders in the nation for public schools to engaging in corporate sponsorships.

Where does this money go? This money is going to the Penn-Harris-Madison Education Foundation. What this does is give money and grants to school programs that the state can't provide money to. This money does not just go to that sport or program, it goes to the corporation's education foundation to benefit not just the athlete, but the student in student-athlete or just student.

This deal is major, because Freed Field brings in the largest crowds through out the year, because it hosts football, band, track, and lacrosse.

The TCU deal will last 13 years, and all money goes to the PHM Education Foundation.

Penn Chief Operating Officer Aaron Leniski said, "This is a win-win for our community. TCU has been a proud longstanding supporter of Penn High School and has contributed financial support to many of our academic and athletic programs in the past. This expanded sponsorship further shows their dedication to our community and student body. We look forward to continuing the tradition and success of Kingsmen football at TCU Freed Field!"
